

BE GOING TO VS. WILL EXERCISE

Directions: Complete the following sentences with either BE GOING TO or WILL.

- Part A: Why are you looking for a flat-head screwdriver?
Part B: One of the dining room chairs has a loose screw. I _____ fix it.
- Part A: The computer printer isn't printing again! What am I going to do
Part B: Relax. Give Marcelo a call. He _____ take care of it for you.
It's probably just a loose connection.
- Part A: Are you going to the supermarket soon?
Part B: Yep. Why?
Part A: I need to buy some milk today.
Part B: I _____ milk for you.
Part A: Awesome. Thank you!
- Part A: Why are you carrying that cardboard box?
Part B: I _____ mail it to my brother. I'm on my way to the post office.
- Part A: Let's meet for a few beers after work.
Part B: Sounds good to me. I _____ meet you at the Blue Oyster Bar at seven.
- Part A: Could you meet me for a few beers after work?
Part B: I'd like to, but I really can't. I _____ stay at the office until eight o'clock tonight.
- Part A: It's grandma's eightieth birthday next Saturday. What _____ you _____ give her for her birthday?
Part B: I _____ give her a necklace that I made myself.
- Part A: I have a message for Jim from Monica. I am not sure what to do with it.
Part B: Let me see it. I _____ give it to him. He's in my physics class.
Part A: Okay, that's cool, but you have to swear that you won't read it.