There was a party last night, and I missed it. The worst part was that Megan Fox was there, and she was hoping to hook up with a Fulbright student.

I forgot to bring my poem for my speaking grade, and Chuck was disappointed with me. He said I could have a second chance to do my poem, but I was going to lose 85% of my grade because it is late.

My mom never studied at a university until now. She raised us, and now she is ready to graduate. Her graduation is Friday night at 7pm, and her party will last all night long. My best friend just told me that there was going to be a strip poker night with a bunch of hot women from Medellin. This poker night starts at 7pm and lasts until 10pm. Ugh!

I don't feel well right now. I have to be in this stupid English class. I usually feel better when my boyfriend takes care of me. Why isn't he here right now?

Those jerks! I am trying to dance for the Ecuadorian ballet because it has been my lifelong dream. I finally get my audition yesterday, and they tell me that I am not tall enough.

Will you just stop smoking? All of that nasty smoke is really making me mad. Don't you know that smoking is not healthy for you?

It is freezing cold outside. I don't have a jacket with me, and for crying out loud, it hasn't been warm in weeks.

Juan tells me that there is a hot girl in this class that is in love with me, but he swore to keep it a secret. I tried to give him money, but he still said, "No." I even tried to set him up on a date with my cousin. He just will never tell me.
